

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. XXIII.

ATLANTA, GA., THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 21, 1892.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

THE DESTRUCTION

of the Technological School of Georgia.

A FIRE AT THREE THIS MORNING

Lays Waste the Grandest Pile in the State.

THE GREAT SHEET OF FLAME,

Which Told the Story of a Great Disaster. How the Fire Originated—A Desperate Fight with Flames.

The Georgi Technological school was burned to the ground at 3 o'clock this morning.

When the alarm was sounded in the city the magnificent pile was a solid sheet of flame, reflecting a picture thrown against the sky.

It was a sight as bewilderingly beautiful as the destruction it wrought.

The fire was first discovered a few minutes before 3 o'clock.

Patrolman Cain, of the police force, saw flames burst through the roof of the engine room.

Immediately he rang in an alarm from box 113 on Pine street.

It required but a short while for the department to respond. When they reached the school the machinery hall and the engine room were a mass of flames and immediately a general alarm was turned in.

Part of the hose had to be stretched from the corner of Marietta street and North avenue, a quarter of a mile distant, and the delay occasioned by that added to the control the fire had gotten.

When water was finally played upon the configuration the big building adjoining the main building was doomed and the main efforts were directed to saving the latter.

A portion of machinery hall fell in at 3:30 o'clock, half an hour after the fire first started, and in the midst of the fierce heat the firemen worked all the harder to check the course of the flames.

At the hour of going to press it looked as though the big school would be entirely destroyed.

The building cost $35,000. The apparatus cost $300. There were 100 pupils on the rolls.

Dr. L. S. Hopkins got his first information of the casualty from The Constitution. He was greatly moved. He said that some provision would be made to equine the exercises of the institution; but its work was too important to be even temporarily suspended.

ON SILVER AGAIN.

Senator Teller Takes Up the Question Once More.

Washington, April 20.—(Special)—The silver question comes up in some way nearly every day in the senate. Senator Teller delivered an hour's speech favoring free coinage today, which has attracted considerable attention here.

In the course of his speech he touched upon the question of what was to be the position of the republican party in the next presidential election and he served notice that if the republican party is to be a party of the gold standard that party cannot count upon the support of the four silver producing states hereafter.

Shaking Up the Cabinet.

There is going to be quite a shaking in the cabinet. The president has notified Attorney General Miller that he will be appointed to the vacancy on the supreme bench about the 20th of next month. Secretary of the Interior Noble will be promoted to attorney general and Mr. Estee, of California, will be made secretary of the interior. The president decided to appoint Mr. Estee because the republican leaders of the Pacific slope have informed him unless their section is recognized, it might cast its electoral vote for the democrat in the next election.

The Rockwell Case.

The Rockwell-Noyes contested election case is dragging along slowly in the house and the prospects now are that it will consume the entire week. There were but three speeches today and they were not particularly interesting. They dealt with the case in its legal aspect. Judge Cobb, of Alabama, in speaking for Mr. Rockwell, consumed three hours. There are one or two more members of the committee to speak. Then the orators of the house will be turned loose on the case, and there will be fun. Private John Allen, of Mississippi, is down for a speech tomorrow, and unless he is crowded out, the house will be treated to perhaps the finest exhibition of wit and humor it has ever heard. Mr. Allen will, perhaps, have more to say in a descriptive way of the manner in which democrats were ousted by the republican majority of the last house, than about the evidence in this particular case. The friends of Mr. Rockwell are still confident that he will be retained. Only eighteen democrats have been found up to date who will vote to seat the republican.

By Associated Press.

Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, speaking in a usual crisp, nervous manner, from the cause of the contestees and criticised the report of the majority of the committee on the election. In his opinion no case had ever been presented for the action of the house when so little ground existed upon which to base the findings of the majority.

Mr. Cobb, of Pennsylvania, who, with Mr. Gillespie, of Pennsylvania, signed the minority report in favor of the坐立不安的 situation, took the floor. He is tall, thin and gaunt and is conceded one of the best lawyers in the house, but his voice is lacking in volume and can with difficulty be heard above the customary din which filled the chamber. His argument in support of Mr. Rockwell was listened to with great attention by the democratic members, but they were few. Republicans neglected their correspondence in order to follow his deduction from the evidence in the case. Mr. Cobb reviewed the legal aspects of the case and as the legal aspects of an election case are invariably tiresome, interest slackened and before the speaker had consumed an hour his audience had apparently dimmed.

The confusion in the hall finally became so great that Mr. Cobb was compelled to appeal to the chair to be allowed to suspend for a time until other gentlemen on the floor had concluded their remarks. If the house had adjourned he would have stopped him to talk he would stop here and now.

Speaker Pro Tem Compton, of Maryland, having obtained comparative quiet, Mr. Cobb continued with his argument. The house, however, in his speech Mr. Cobb produced the original "Pork Pie" bill, he was immediately questioned by Mr. O'Farrell as to where he had obtained them. Mr. Cobb replied that he did not know that he did not care. These were the only two bills and were open to the inspection of the members.

Speaker Pro Tem Compton for three hours.

Mr. Magner, of New York, favored the committee on agriculture evidently having attempted to modify the errors made in similar committees in the last congress, but in this attempt it had gone too far and proposed to offer up the sitting member as a vice-chairman. At Their Posts Again.

Colonel Livingston and Colonel Moses returned tonight. Both feel splendidly over the prospects of democratic success all over Georgia. They say the outlook is extremely hopeful. E. W. B.

The Desperado Arrested.

Huntsville, Ala., April 20.—(Special).—J. E. McCord, the desperado at New Market, Ala., who was captured in the mountains of Georgia this morning, was shot in the thigh. Gorman was charged with burglary. Deputy Sheriff Ernest and Deputy United States Marshal George Gandy arrested Gorman in the mountains where he lies in jail here tonight. He and McCord almost simultaneously fired at each other.

The Lumber Folk on Them.

Montgomery, Ala., April 20.—(Special).—About 6 o'clock this evening two little children, a boy and a girl, were found hanging from a tree on the corner of Holt and Martha streets, a pile of bones fell on them severely, injuring John Ray, aged two years, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Ray, aged three years.

The boy is suffering intensely, and fears are entertained that he will not recover.

EIGHT HOURS A DAY
For Workmen Upon Public Works—The New Bills.

Washington, April 20.—The house labor committee today agreed upon a bill relating to the number of hours to be worked by laborers and mechanics employed upon public works. It limits and restricts to eight hours in any one calendar day the service and employment of all laborers and mechanics employed upon public works of the United States, or of the District of Columbia, or any contractor or subcontractor to whom any public works of the United States, or of the District of Columbia, or any contractor or subcontractor whose duty it shall be to perform direct services to the service of laborers and mechanics or to permit them to work more than eight hours in any calendar day except in case of extraordinary emergency. Any person who violates this provision of the act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and be punished by fine or imprisonment or both. The provision of the bill was already entered into the vote of the convention, and the people are anxious to call for the adoption of the amendment. Magner maintained his position, however, and was finally able to make himself heard. He is still unable to get a hearing.

"I want to know what that resolution has to do with the republican platform in a presidential year. I cannot see."

Mager was here interrupted by an upstart of the Southern Express Company, to effect that a reward of a thousand dollars had been offered for the arrest and conviction of the robbers of the north-bound train on the Illinois Central.

The matter was finally settled by Mr. Phillips temporarily withdrawing his amendment.

The platform was then adopted as read and the confusion was renewed when Phillips again offered his resolution. He was finally prevailed upon to withdraw it, the objection being to its local character. A resolution constituting a committee in the offering by

FOR HIS LIFE.

Elisha Underwood Was on Trial Yesterday. day-The Evidence.

A GESTURE THAT BROKE AN ARM.

Mr. W. M. Neal Jerks His Arm Out of Place While Addressing the Jury.

The Underwood case took up the day in the criminal branch of the superior court yesterday, and intense interest was manifested by the great crowd which packed the basement of the courthouse.

The evidence was in before noon and the trial ended about dark.

The testimony was listened to with almost breathless attention. The prisoner's statement was made and went point-blank against the evidence of Mr. Dugger, Sayre's brother-in-law. The widow appeared as a witness for the state and was very much affected by the questions asked her concerning what Mr. Sayre said to her at dinner when he was out of humor because dinner was served before he came. The effect of her testimony was to corroborate that of Mr. Dugger.

The argument was opened for the defense by Mr. W. D. Maddox. Mr. W. M. Neal of Rome, followed for the state, and while he was speaking, after half-past 2 o'clock, a very violent accident occurred.

Mr. Neal was particularly with both arms when one of them flew out of the socket at the shoulder and he had to suspend for a half hour. A physician was summoned and Mr. Neal finally concluded. He rose and asked the court to bear with him for the delay, and explained that his arm was injured by an accident some time ago, and it was on this account that it got out of place so easily.

Solicitor General C. D. Hill closed for the state in an hour and a half and was followed by Colonel W. C. Glenn, who closed for the defense.

While Colonel Glenn was speaking about 6 o'clock, a very violent accident occurred.

"Talk about manhood, it takes no manhood to convict this poor defenseless man because he is helpless and the mob cries for blood. What man can sign such a verdict when there is reasonable doubt of the prisoner's guilt, because the mob is thirsty for blood."

"Where is the mob?" demanded the solicitor.

"You are a whole mob in yourself," said Colonel Glenn.

"Your honor, I call attention to this said by him in a concluding argument. I ask, your honor, where is the mob?"

"I answered that by saying you are a whole mob in yourself," said Colonel Glenn, "a truthful answer," said the solicitor.

Colonel Glenn then explained that he did not mean to say there was any particular mob, but that the populace was thirsty for blood, and the very arguments of the counsel were for cry for blood.

The following is a summary of the evidence:

The physicians, Drs. Stephens and Parks, described Sayre's wounds. Dr. Parks said the man was shot twice, once in the breast and once in the back, and died almost immediately.

Sayre's brother-in-law, W. R. Dugger, was an important witness. He swore that Underwood and Sayre went down town in the morning and returned about 12 o'clock, both drinking, but apparently on friendly terms.

Underwood came out in the front porch, and said he would kill Sayre if he did not stop imposing on his wife. Underwood stopped to his son, Dan Dugger, who told him to notify Sayre of the threat, and get him out of the way. Underwood came up behind and shot Sayre as he was rising from the table, while his wife and children were present. Sayre staggered to the door of the house and fell down. There was a tremendous downpour in Kome last night.

NOT DAN DALY.

The Man Under Arrest in Birmingham Is Somebody Else.

Dan Daly is not in Birmingham and has not been.

Ever since he was hurt a week or two ago, Daly has been confined to his home. Naturally, therefore, he was very greatly surprised yesterday to read the report that he was under arrest at Birmingham.

He was not in Birmingham, but he was arrested there because it is some other Dan Daly. The "Daily Post" says he is known to the inhabitants fell in that section. Mr. Carlson Wright, a prominent farmer, said to the Constitution that the hall was larger than a hen's egg; that the window panes of his home were all broken; and that a chicken in the neighborhood was killed in this morning's storm. The rabbits, evidently killed by the storm, were found. One report from the flatwoods also states that a great storm raged there last night, and the river was badly washed out by the rain, and that at one point of the two young calves were killed by the hall. There was also a tremendous downpour in Kome last night.

NOT SPELLING IN MARIETTA.

A Sudden and Terrible Hailstorm in Texas Valley.

Rome, Ga., April 20.—(Special)—From Terrell, Tex., a little valley which lies just beyond the Llano mountains, fifteen miles from Rome, reports came to the effects that last night the most terrible hailstone ever known to the inhabitants fell in that section. Mr. Carlson Wright, a prominent farmer, said to the Constitution that the hall was larger than a hen's egg; that the window panes of his home were all broken; and that a chicken in the neighborhood was killed in this morning's storm.

Sheriff Hill pressed the question as to what other words her husband used before he was killed. The question brought her to tears, but, when a reply was insisted on, she said: "He asked me why in the hell I ate dinner before he came back."

Sheriff Hill, of Gordon county, testified that Underwood told him he hardly knew why he killed Sayre; that he did it because he quarreled with his wife, and, when he took her part, he threw out some stink.

THE PISTOL WAS PUT IN EVIDENCE.

Mr. Warden, a next-door neighbor, testified that about eight inches from the dining room door, where he fell. He saw Underwood making his way off. He saw no weapon on Sayre, but saw Underwood's pistol in a bureau drawer.

The question was submitted in a voice so low that he had to sit very near the jury for them to hear him. He said he and Sayre were drinking on the fatal day, when they went to the house. Sayre was not treating his wife right, and Dugger was about to protect his wife. Sayre turned and more than kill Dugger. He seemed wrought up over something about his wife. Prisoner told Sayre to go to work, or he would take his place, but Sayre went into his room, swearing he was going to kill Dugger. Prisoner said Dugger with a pistol in his hand. Tried to kill Sayre, who was still violent. One day before, Sayre abused his wife, and she was taken to the hospital.

Seven Prisoners.

Sanderville, Ga., April 20.—(Special)—Seven prisoners are now in jail—the two white boys charged with bridge burning, two negroes charged with hog stealing, and another for stealing a piece of meat. The elder of the Burton boys it will be remembered, was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment but the technical question being raised whether it was bridges or trestles that were burned, the case is being considered by Judge Gamble, who will render his decision next month.

THE BODY FOUND.

Carrollton, Ga., April 20.—(Special)—John Duncan, a boy, was drowned in Snake Creek some ten days ago, has been found. Over five hundred men have dragged the creek for miles and an uncle of young Duncan was wading in the creek and stepped on the boy's face. The balance of the body was covered up in sand.

Dr. Price's Delicious Flavoring Extracts

are conceded to have no peers in the market, and thus the demand is constantly increasing. The manufacturer of cheap Extracts gets all the profit there is in the dishonesty, and the grocer has to shoulder the blame.

Cards Price Freight.

Macon, Ga., April 20.—(Special)—Captain J. L. Hardeman, commanding the Uniform Knights of Pythias, of this city, has resigned and is at a meeting. Last night he was elected, Mr. Charles Smith, a well known and popular young man and a lieutenant in the Macon Light Infantry, being chosen for the place.

Mr. Robert was elected herald.

Mr. Smith is a young military officer and it is conjectured that he will bring the uniform rank up to a high standard.

The membership is about fifty, and all of the men are enthusiastic in the work.

It is likely that Sir Knight Captain Smith will begin at once to perfect the troupe and put them in shape for prize drilling.

It is already a fine team and good work is expected of them.

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Macon, Ga., April 20.—(Special)—The drummers can't ride on freight trains on the Georgia Southern road, so Superintendent Hoge notified the committee today, who called on him a few days ago with a petition asking that drummers who held a cried. Prisoner spoke to him, and Sayre accused him of interfering in his family affairs. When he went into Sayre's room the day of the killing, he said, he made at prison with a knife, and called him a "b----". "Sayre, don't do that!" he said, but Sayre advanced, and prisoner shot. Did not know he shot twice. Dugger was still there with a pistol, and Dugger gave him his gun, and he fled.

Dugger returned to the stand, and denied all of Underwood's statements. Mrs. J. A. Lester, a next-door neighbor, saw Underwood dying after he killed Sayre. The first was shot in the shirt sleeves, when he jumped out of the window, and when she saw Underwood running, she cried: "Oh, my God!" He made some reply the witness did not hear.

REAL ESTATE MATTERS.

The Scopes Estate Sold Yesterday—The Roche Property.

Yesterday the Scopes estate property on Dawson and Loyd streets was sold by Dr. Dugger, a next-door neighbor.

The first lot was that fronting 89 feet on Loyd street running back 120 feet, and was sold to Mr. Henry S. Johnson for $10 per foot.

The second was that which fronts on Decatur street 22 feet wide, 120 feet deep, and was bought by D. O. Stevens for $10 per foot.

These places were splendid sales, and show property in the center of Atlanta is growing in value year after year.

Yesterday afternoon a large crowd gathered at the corner of Piedmont avenue and Warren place to attend Samuel W. Goods & Co.'s auction sale.

The auctioneer, Mr. Goods, said the highest bid was Mrs. M. C. Smith who bought the Piedmont avenue lot, and cottage $2,900, and the Warren place for $1,400.

There is a large crowd of people gathered at the corner of Piedmont and Warren place to attend Samuel W. Goods & Co.'s auction sale.

Preparations Are Being Made for a Grand Convention Here.

The next annual convention of the Southern Educational Society will not be held in Atlanta until July 6th, but preparations are already being made for a round meeting.

The society is composed of hundreds of the most prominent educators and literary people in the southern states, and its convention will bring from five hundred to eight hundred people to Atlanta this summer.

The Georgia State Teachers' Association will hold its annual convention here at the same time and will be largely attended.

A round trip rate of one fare has been allowed by all the railroads leading to Atlanta and a delightful programme has been arranged.

Death to Blood Poison.

Self preservation prompts us to kill a venomous reptile, wherever we find one. Ought we not to use the same precaution to drive the poisonous blood from our veins and keep it out of our systems. S. S. S. was never known to fail to cure a case of blood poison. And as three-fourths of the ill men are due directly or indirectly to poisons of the blood, how wide is the field for such a remedy as S. S. S.? There is no risk in taking it, nor is it an experiment. It contains no mineral, no poison of any sort, and builds up the human organism from the start.

The Last Drop

Is as good as the first. No dregs. All pure and wholesome. The most popular drink of the day. Meals served from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Hires' Root Beer.

A perfect thirst quencher.

Don't be deceived by a dealer, for the sake of larger profit, tells you some other kind is "just as good"—it's false. No imitation is as good as the genuine Hires.

DESHON AS GASPARD.

There is no more artistic performance in opera than Frank Deshon's rendition of the role of Gaspard in "The Chimes of Normandy." This Deshon is truly great.

In the comedy roles of the popular operas he may have his equals—but though he certainly has them, he is not one of the most popular.

He is a real funny, principals who can sing, act, play the piano, and perform comic roles, a splendid orchestra—all these joining in the production of the most popular comic operas ever written.

The company was strengthened by the presence of Mr. McSweeney in the principal baritone role.

At the theatre today "Olivette" will be presented; tonight, "Ermine."

A large number of municipal elections were held throughout Illinois recently, and every case the license question was the controlling issue. So far as heard from in over 125 cities, there was a vote against the measure, and fifty for anti-license, others being tied.

Collections of internal revenue during the first nine months of the current fiscal year were $13,302,600, an increase of $4,777,086 compared with the same time last year.

NOTHING can be said in favor of the mechanics in the world that may not be said of the most worthless. In one instance, the other, it is true, but how can you distinguish?

Judge by what is done. There's only one blood-purifier that's genuine—Dr. Piero's Golden Medical Discovery—and it's done with it; if it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you get your money back.

All the year round, and at one time as another, it cleanses and purifies the system.

All blood-poison must go. For Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofula, Salt-rheum, Tetter, Erysipelas, or any blood-saint or disorder, it is unequalled.

It's the cheapest, too. With this, you pay only for the good you get.

And this is just as good! It may be better for the dealer, but he isn't the one that's to be helped.

"Value received, or no pay"—you can't get these terms with any other medicines, at any price.

HOW MONEY GROWS.

Suburban Property as a Speculative Investment.

A SERIOUS TALK TO WORKMEN

How a Few Dollars Saved Every Month Will Pay for a Comfortable Home. Facts and Figures.

"I have been out to South Kirkwood, East End and Candler's Park and I am very favorably impressed with all three places. In fact, I hardly know which suburb I would prefer to buy lots in. It is true that South Kirkwood is the most recent to Atlanta, but East End, which adjoins it, is about the "hollowing" distance of the city, figuratively speaking, and is to be a town itself, with postoffice, churches and schools. And as Candler's Park it is right in the lay of the land, one mile from Peachtree Street and school places in Midtown. All three suburbs are equally equipped with street railroad facilities; so I don't know what to do unless you promise to buy me a house in one of them. I am a local traveling man said recently after looking over the property of the Atlanta Suburban Land Company which lies just east of the city limits.

This young gentleman has $1,000 in a bank, which he has been saving to buy a large farm in the first instance, was west it all in one good lot, and then get the Atlanta Suburban Land Company to build a residence on it. This he could pay for on installments of so much per month. But, after looking over the property of South Kirkwood, East End and Candler's Park, he concluded that he could use his $1,000 as a speculative medium, and, in a few years, come out of the transaction with a home of his own, and a comfortable place to live. His plan is $100 per month, so he will buy a lot in each suburb, and pay one-fourth of the purchase price in cash. The balance being on long time, with low interest, he is satisfied that he can meet the liability of the same in two or three years, and then make enough from the sale of two of the lots to build a handsome home on the remainder.

"I believe," said he, "that the territory between Atlanta and Decatur will be almost a solid block of residences and new houses in ten years. I never saw land better for home-building, and it has been the intention of Atlanta ever since the war to absorb Decatur. Besides this, the Atlanta Suburban Land Company will be on improving the property, which will, of course, increase the value of that bought by others. And just look at the facilities for getting into Atlanta. There are the Georgia railroad with eight or ten trains daily, and Metropolitan Railway line, with an hourly schedule. A man can carry on business in the heart of Atlanta, and eat all three meals at home in South Kirkwood, East End or Candler's Park, without losing any time.

This is a strong reasoning, and the plan of the drummer will, no doubt, make as he calculates. A few weeks ago, a young country merchant occupied a room with me at one of the hotels in the city. Several days ago, he had a good talk with a wholesale Atlanta firm, thus simplifying his plan.

A small body of land beyond the eastern limits of the city was put on the market at two or three thousand dollars. The young man began to pay part of the money down. He stinted himself to pay the balance, and, when thought he knew the situation, laughed at him. But the land was eventually paid for, and, to-day, the young fellow could sell out for $20,000.

One hundred dollars less last long, when a "fellow goes out to take in the town," but, if judiciously invested in Atlanta or suburban real estate, and added to occasionally, it soon becomes the nucleus of an independent fortune. It grows while we sleep. There is not a man in Atlanta drawing a salary of seventy-five or one hundred dollars per month that could not, if he would, save enough, in a few years, to pay for a comfortable home. The inducements offered to men of this class by the Atlanta Suburban Land Company are all that could be asked. One can buy a large, well-located house at South Kirkwood, East End or Candler's Park, with the money, and never throw away in one year. Only one-fourth of the purchase price is required in cash, and the balance can be paid in installments to suit the purchaser. It is surprising how easily one can acquire a home of his own, and those who have families to shelter should give the proposition serious consideration. The office of the above company is in the Jackson building, on Pryor and Alabama streets.

What the Governor Says.

State of Georgia, Executive Department.

Atlanta, Ga., April 18.—To All Whom It May Concern: If the law authorized it, I should reappoint Colonel Thomas P. Stovall, State Commissioner of Education, for Georgia, and Colonel L. W. The commissioners are now undertaking upon a broad, liberal and practical plan, at the expense of the state, to bring the state into closer sympathy with those gentlemen in their public spirited purpose, and endorse, to the full extent, in a personal way, their efforts to work to the people, the business men, and the state, of the schools and the community, for the promotion of education as can be granted, and is required to give success to the important movement for the public good, believing that it is best for the state if it can be shown that direct trade is a necessity, and that it is practicable, if properly sought.

OPTICIANS OF THE SOUTH IN COUNCIL

A Large Attendance from All Over the Southern States Here.

There is now in session at the Kimball house an optical class which is being attended by a large crowd of representative jewellers from different cities throughout the southern states.

This course is being conducted by Dr. King, of the Julius King Optical Company, of New York and Cleveland, and lectures are given in the morning and afternoon of the class.

The most improved method of correcting the same are demonstrated in the class by the Atlanta Suburban Land Company all that could be done.

THE ENCAMPMENT GROUNDS

Set Adjutant General A. J. West Into Ecstasies.

Griffin, Ga., April 20.—(Special)—Quartermaster General A. J. West, of Atlanta, has been in the city today inspecting the work at the encampment. He expresses himself as more than pleased at the progress made, and the people of Griffin are gratified by their general letter.

The work is much further advanced than he expected to find it, and certainly a more ideal camp field could not have been selected in the state than this one.

"Nature has done her part, and what was deficient in nature has been abundantly supplied by the committee of Griffin citizens. The approaches to the grounds and the streets through them are model thoroughfares, and greatly add to the appearance of the grounds.

Then those springs are exactly in the right place, and afford the finest water I ever drank. I am charmed with the whole thing."

The contract for the electric lights has been let, and the lights, six in number, have been located, and will be in position by the end of next week. The city council also instructed Receiver H. C. Burr to lay the piping from the water main through the campus, and this, too, has been done.

The work of the day is received.

At the close of the day the dirt will be given to those who have passed an examination.

On account of the increase in cases of defects of vision, especially among young people, it is very important that the public should be instructed so as to be able to prescribe glasses in a scientific manner.

Dr. King is to be congratulated on having so thoroughly a representative class of opticians here to qualify themselves as opticians. Mr. J. W. Conroy, manager of the New York office, and Ed J. Walker, the representative of the company in the south, are here assisting Dr. King.

The following is a list of those in attendance:

FOR DIRECT TRADE.
Colonel T. P. Stovall at the Head of a New Movement.

Two gentlemen well known in Atlanta and Georgia are interested in a movement to secure direct trade between southern ports and the ports of Europe and they propose pushing their plans with great vigor.

They believe that the time is come when this movement of affairs can be made a reality, and they propose to do everything in their power to bring that about.

Colonel Thomas P. Stovall is the main mover in this movement. Col. L. W. Avery will do the writing for the project.

Colonel Stovall's wide acquaintance with capitalists abroad will be of special value to him in this movement. He outlines his purposes in the following letter:

Colonel Stovall's Letter.

Atlanta, Ga., April 16, 1892. To His Excellency, W. J. Northen, Dear Sir: Encouraged by frequent conversations with you on this subject, I have written to the Atlanta, and also by the suggestion given me by you when I presented the subject before the Georgia legislature in 1888, I have decided to go forward to that which there was but little to attract, and many to oppose to them the importance now should command special attention.

It has become more and more manifest that a growing influence is now a marked feature, that immigration of all kinds brought together; immigrants to be judiciously selected and settled by communities of their own kind.

It has been overtaken us this year in consequence of overproduction and threaten disaster to agriculture and commercial interests.

It is the desire of the author of this article to show our people the many advantages of "intensive" farming and how to dispose of surplus products.

There are many advantages according to a community of settlers which require good judgment, continual watching and nursing good soil.

The system of renting land to tenants who can only deposit old mules makes both tenantry and landlord a profitless and useless class.

It is impracticable and worthless, and idleness is the result. Bring in a good class of immigrants, and by the superintendence of the author of this article, a class of farmers creating solid communities.

Hundreds are now drifting into the northern states who should be induced to go to Georgia.

The climate of California is especially adapted to fruit. There they grow larger, and better, and better suited to anywhere else.

California has been induced to send a delegation to represent the state to the exposition.

MEMORIAL DAY

Will Be Elaborately Observed in Atlanta.

FULTON COLVILLE, ORATOR OF THE DAY

It Will Be the Biggest Memorial Day Celebration Atlanta Has Ever Known—Particulars of the Occasion.

Next Tuesday, Memorial Day, will be celebrated in the most elaborate way, by the old veterans and Atlanta's military.

It is not too much to say that it will be one of the largest celebrations of Memorial Day that the city has ever known.

The Fulton County Confederate Veterans' Association had the arrangements for the celebration under way for some time, and it will have a splendid programme for the day's observance.

The veterans have made a most happy selection for the orator of the day.

Mr. Fulton Colville, the silver-tongued young attorney, has been invited to deliver the oration of the day. He has accepted, and a grand effort is expected from him.

Mr. Colville is young, but he is thoroughly imbued with genuine southern patriotism, and his tongue is fired with the genuine southern eloquence. That he will be equal to the grand occasion, no one that has ever heard him can doubt for a moment. He will give his hearers something new, in the way of Memorial Day oratory.

The Line of March.

The exercises will be held at the cemetery in the afternoon, but the procession will be formed at the corner of Broad and Marietta streets, and will march to the cemetery.

Colonel W. L. Calhoun, as president of the Fulton County Confederate Veterans' Association, will be the commander-in-chief, although the programme is not yet completed, it is likely that the veterans will march at the head of the procession, in uniform, and in a body.

Every military company in the city will take part in the procession.

An invitation has been issued to every organization in the city to turn out in force, and march in the procession to Oakland cemetery. Any of these organizations which desire to take part will communicate with either Mr. Frank Ryan or Colonel W. L. Calhoun.

The line of march will be along Broad to Hunter, and thence to Oakland, where the memorial exercises will be held.

The exercises at the cemetery will consist in the decoration of the graves of the dead soldiers, as usual, and the oration by Mr. Fulton Colville.

The veterans are deeply interested in making the celebration a greater one than ever before.

A few years, and these memorial exercises will be ended. The veterans realize this, and each year adds greater zeal to their annual observances.

Events in Progress.

The Location of the Odd Fellows Orphans' Home is in progress.

The grand lodge committee of the Odd Fellows meets in Macon today to decide upon the long delayed matter of selecting a site for the Odd Fellows Orphanage home.

John J. A. Moore, a member of the grand lodge committee, published in the Macon News it seems there is a bitter feeling among the Macon Odd Fellows against Atlanta.

It seems that Macon is willing for the home to go to Atlanta, and Griffin is willing for it to go to anywhere to shut out Atlanta.

From a financial point of view the offer of Atlanta is far ahead of that of any that have yet been made.

With the exception of the Macon offer the bids before the committee will be as considered at the meeting on the night of March 31st.

HOLMES RUN DOWN.

He Burned His Way Out of Jail, but Is Soon Landed.

Bill Holmes, a desperate character who burned his way out of the West End jail a few days ago, was landed by Patrolmen Tyson and Beavers yesterday morning.

A week or two ago, he was caught in the city by Patrolmen Heard and Helms. There had been a reward offered for his arrest by the West End authorities, and he was turned over to them.

Holmes had planned upon an escape. He could think of no other way than to take his chances of suffering from a fire and being tried for arson, and to that desperate method he resorted.

His plan succeeded. Since then a vigorous search has been made for him. About 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Mountedmen Tyson and Beavers came upon the much-wanted man on Smith street.

He made an effort to get away unnoticed, but in a moment, was caught and made a prisoner.

Holmes was locked up at police headquarters, and Marshal Caldwell, at West End, was notified of his arrest. He will probably be tried for him.

Holmes is wanted in Savannah, Augusta and Chattanooga, and in each of the places, on a serious charge. Besides that, there is no telling the amount of mischief he may have committed.

The West End people want him now on the additional charge of arson, and the outlook for Holmes is an exceedingly gloomy one.

DUDLEY IS DEAD.

The Young Man Who Was Hurt Several Weeks Ago Dies of His Injuries.

Gilbert Dudley, the young fireman on the Western and Atlantic, who was hurt while walking along the road several weeks ago, died from the effects of his injuries at 1:15 o'clock yesterday morning.

Last month the young man crossed on Foundry street from the track on which he worked in the afternoon, but the procession will be formed at the corner of Broad and Marietta streets, and will march to the cemetery.

Colonel W. L. Calhoun, as president of the Fulton County Confederate Veterans' Association, will be the commander-in-chief, although the programme is not yet completed, it is likely that the veterans will march at the head of the procession, in uniform, and in a body.

THE CONSTITUTION.

People Seeking Homes, Read This.

"Bonnibrae" is to be sold today, April 21st, at auction, lots of varying sizes, very beautiful, mostly lots, just outside the city limits, where no city taxes are to be paid.

These lots are large enough for a dwelling and a garden. They will be sold on easement, part and all, on third class roads, bounded in one or two and three years, with 8 per cent interest, so that men working for medium salaries can buy them, and they will be convenient to both Atlanta and West End for business, school, church and social purposes.

They are surrounded by property of much improved, but not too high, of which these form a part, have been considered so exceptionally high, level shaded and beautiful, that they have been sought after by the highest bidders. But now, for the first time, lots in this lovely grove and choice locality are offered.

To the very first subdivision, and speculators have had no shoving so far. Every Atlanta person knows that never a finer lot has ever been offered for sale in Atlanta, and on the 21st of April, there will not be any less money than purchases could realize any time at a second sale.

This property is the first in the subdivision, and every buyer will be sure to make money. Some of these purchasers will build pretty houses, and every dweller will be a man of independent means. Remember this is a truth taught by experience.

There Is Money in Them.

We mean those 31 lots to be sold today at 3 p.m. by E. M. Roberts and Krouse & Randall.
